Reforming Legal Frameworks for Rights Protection and Social Justice

SUMMARY

This edition explores various legal issues through seven articles on reforming legal frameworks for rights protection and social justice. Topics include criminal policy in the defense industry, coercive success fee practices by attorneys, the role of village consultative bodies in democracy, economic rights through royalties in digital platforms, government policies on health rights for persons with disabilities, foreign land ownership in Bali, and the legal protection of indigenous peoples in East Kalimantan amid agrarian conflicts. These articles highlight the importance of legal reforms in safeguarding rights and promoting social justice.
